Big crowd says 'No-Thank-Q' to CMP's powerline proposal

A Central Maine Power official described it as the largest public meeting yet held on the utility company's proposal to construct a 450-kilovolt powerline through western Maine. About 150 people filled the second floor of the Andover town hall last Wednesday night to listen to CMP officials explain why they wanted to build the line and what the effects would be on Andover and vicinity.

While the audience paid polite attention to the CMP presentation, they did so in the way a patient listens to a doctor telling him he has only a limited time left to live. The news left no one happy.

Robert Greene asked the head of the CMP delegation, "Does this [powerline] in any way better the people of Andover?" And CMP Vice-President Richard Crabtree responded bluntly, "No."

He continued: "The detriments outweigh the benefits for the Town of Andover. The question is, do the benefits outweigh the detriments for the State of Maine. If the answer is 'yes,' we go forward."

Going forward entails working through both the state and federal permitting processes, plus purchasing land or easements from landowners on the route of the proposed 100-mile powerline. Finally, building the $270 million line, which will stretch from the Canadian border with western Maine, south to Upton, thence east to Jay, where the power would be converted to AC, and thence south to Fernald where the power would join the existing CMP grid. (See the map in The Citizen, July 22.)

What CMP has done to date includes: signed a letter of intent with Hydro-Quebec to purchase up to 900 megawatts of power annually from 1992 to 2000; asked the Maine Legislature and the Public Utilities Commission to okay the purchase of Canadian power; asked the federal government for permission to purchase the foreign power; conducted aerial mapping of possible corridors, finally—in June—settling on the one described above.

(In the process of selecting a route for the powerline, CMP has held a dozen meetings—five of them since the final corridor was decided upon. The meeting in Andover was organized by the Board of Selectmen and chaired by Moderator David Percival.)

In four weeks time, the CMP officials told the meeting in Andover, they will announce the exact route. The corridor, as now defined, extends 3,000 feet in width. The actual route will have a right-of-way of only 100 feet. The center of this right-of-way will determine whose property will have to be bought and whose will be left alone.

But, as one man in the audience said to VP Crabtree, "You'll buy 200 feet of my land and ruin the rest of it by having a powerline damage the visual environment."

MSAD #44 Directors' meeting

A regular meeting of the SAD #44 Board of Directors was held at the Andover Elementary School on Monday evening of this week.

Cherie A. Harrington of Syracuse, N.Y., was approved as elementary physical education teacher for the 1987-88 school year. She holds an associate in arts from Adirondack Community College, a B.S. in Physical Education and Health from East Stroudsburg University, and an M.S. in Education (physical education), State University of New York at Cortland.

Gail Wright was approved as assistant field hockey coach at Telstar Regional High School for the 1987-88 school year. The directors granted final approval to school board goals for 1987-88 school year.

Following an executive session, the directors upheld the decision of the Telstar administration in denying academic credits to a student under the provisions of the district's attendance policy. (This issue was tabled at the July 27 meeting of the directors.)

In another matter tabled at the July 27 meeting, following an executive session the board upheld the 10 day suspension of a Telstar student imposed in May. Any action concerning a student's abuse report/evaluation involving the same student was further tabled until the Aug. 24 board session.

After a third executive session, the directors amended a decision rendered at the July 27 meeting. The action removed any mention of Tri-County Mental Health concerning the student's re-entry into Telstar.

Newry tax rate drops

Newry's tax rate this year has been set at $7.20 per $1,000 of assessed valuation. The rate was set yesterday (Tuesday) by Selectmen Leo Swan and Roger Hanscom at the board's weekly meeting. Last year's rate was $11.10.

The lower rate was brought about by the continued rapid growth of valuation in the town—about double the valuation of a year ago.

The selectmen re-computed the valuation figures given them by the computer service company after finding that certain properties had been left off the original listing. The new valuation figure is $40,201,000.

Newry taxpayers will pay a total of $33,254 in taxes this year. This will go towards paying for town and county government, plus the school district assessment, plus overlay.

Those district expenses are as follows: town budget, $164,039; school assessment, $199,201; county tax, $15,230; overlay, $15,230. The total expense of the town, of $330,870, are reduced by state and federal aid plus some use of surplus, which brings the amount to be raised by taxes to $33,254.

The information has been forwarded to the computer service and tax bill should be ready for mailing by the end of next week, the selectmen said.

A 2 percent discount will be allowed on continued on Page Fourteen

The next scheduled meeting of the SAD #44 directors is 7:30 Monday evening, Aug. 24, at Telstar Regional High School.

HELPING SATISFY BLUEBERRY CRAVINGS, this band of cooks and servers helped make the Locke Mills Union Church's Blueberry Festival last Saturday a great success. The volunteers are: Willie Hathaway, Heather Roberts, Ellie Beauchene and Dick Melville. The affair required 375 pounds of blueberries from Haverhill, N. in South Paris, which produced 200 pancakes, 60 pies, and left 250 pounds of berries to be sold by the quart. The pies were made by Maggie Swan, Maggie Ring, Irene Mills, Ellie Beauchene and daughter Heather. Helping bake off the pies were Sylvia Dunham and Barbara Dunham, and Ruth Cox. Others working to make the day a success included: Bethany Bean, Kathleen Bean, Leland Dunham, Gertrude and Stan Andrews, and Bev Melville. The church netted about $600 on the sale of the blueberry delicacies.

District towns receive state valuation figures

Area town offices last week received the preliminary figures on the State Valuations for Oxford County from the State Bureau of Taxation for FY '88.

Following are the figures for the five towns in SAD #44, with the percentage increase or decrease over FY '87:

Andover, $27,650,000 (+3.5 percent); Bethel, $54,900,000 (+12.4 percent); Greenwood, $24,650,000 (+1.3 percent); Newry, $27,650,000 (+4.8 percent); Woodstock, $28,750,000 (+1.5 percent).

Andover shows a decrease in valuation, due to loss of value at the satellite station, while the other four towns show increases, with Newry showing the largest increase and Bethel the smallest.

Newry Selectman Roger Hanscom computed percentages of the school assessment using the state preliminary valuation figures for FY '88. His calculations are as follows:

Andover will pay 21.6 percent of the SAD #44 assessment for FY '88; Bethel, 31.8 percent; Greenwood, 14.3 percent; Newry, 15.7 percent; and Woodstock 15.6 percent.

Sudbury Canada Days a success

Despite threatening weather, the 8th annual Sudbury Canada Days, summer heritage festival of the Bethel Historical Society, proceeded without incident Saturday and Sunday. Held in the society's headquarters, the Dr. Moses Mason House, and on the grounds, the event this year also featured a highly successful period fashion show and exhibit at the Hammett House just up the street.

Sudbury Canada was Bethel's original name in use from 1788 to 1796 when the town was incorporated as the 10th such municipality in what was then the District of Maine.

The day began with the traditional children's parade supervised this year by Sue Howe. Marshal for the event this year was Jim Anderson in his Black Watch uniform, accompanied by Kevin Powell on drums. The theme this year was "Fables and Fairy Tales" and participants were judged in four categories by judges Margaret Davis, Jane Hosterman, and Marvin Quigley. In the "Cleverest" category, first prize went to Sarah Vedella and Adam Chamberlain, "Little Red Riding Hood" and the gold

Mill Brook condo plan goes to Planning Board

Developers of the Mill Brook Estates condominium project at the former Douglas trailer park, on Bridge Street, Bethel, are expected to present a completed plan for the project to the Planning Board at next meeting. (The meeting was originally scheduled for tonight, Wednesday, but has been moved to Aug. 26 because of lack of a quorum.)

The project envisions 80 units in a planned unit development, with town sewer and private water.

When the developers—Marathon Steel—presented their plan to the board two weeks ago, the board refused to accept it as a complete plan, noting it lacked a statement from the Maine Department of Transportation regarding access to Rte. 2, and it lacked sufficient engineering data to allow the board to determine how much filling of wetlands will take place.

Marathon's Jim Putnam told The Citizen the deficiencies in the plan have all been remedied. He said the engineers estimate the filling to be done would cause less than one inch of additional flooding in the area in the event of a 100-year flood.

In Bryant Pond, where Marathon has constructed the Lake Christopher Condominiums and undertaken other projects, work has begun on paving the entranceway at the condos.

Marathon, last week, closed on two properties it had under contract in Bryant Pond. The company purchased Harold Clukey's Sweet Violets office, on Main Street, and will change the name to Marathon Realty. A grand opening is planned in about a month, after renovations are completed.

The company also closed on the Jackson property—the large house across from the entrance to the Lake Christopher Condominiums. Mr. Putnam said the company will rehabilitate the house. There are no immediate plans for what the house will serve.

Opinions

These are not trees

People in Andover—and Upton and Magalloway and Roxbury and elsewhere in western Maine—are upset about Central Maine Power Company's plan to erect 100-foot towers, six to the mile, along a 100-mile corridor from the Canadian border to Jay.

And they are upset with good reason. Man-made towers are a poor exchange for trees, especially if the populace derives no benefits from the towers. Who in his or her right mind would want to scar the mountains of western Maine with a 200-foot-wide swath of nakedness, dotted every thousand feet or so with one of these huge towers?

And yet that is what CMP proposes to do. This is not a small clear-cut logging operation that will grow back. This is a scar that will be kept scarred by the application of herbicides. These are steel towers that people in western Maine will have to look at every day of the year, for as long as they live. And that is simply the visual impact. There is also the potential health risk, with new studies coming in all the time indicating there is a real risk from the electromagnetic fields of these high-voltage powerlines.

This is a project that makes no sense. According to CMP officials, the state will have a shortfall of 600 megawatts by the year 2001. Therefore, CMP proposes to import 900 megawatts—and have 300 left over to sell out-of-state.

If indeed the state will have the predicted shortfall, CMP should be intensely looking around for local sources of power instead of getting into the import-export business. In fact, the governor attended a dedication last week for a wood-chip-fired generating plant in Chester, Maine—in Penobscot County. The plant is selling its output to the Bangor electric company. But the owner says he would be happy to build more plants to help satisfy the demand that CMP is going abroad to fill. And, he told The Citizen, he would sell the power to CMP for 7½ cents per kilowatt hour, versus the 9½ cents per kilowatt hour CMP will pay the Canadians. The owner of the plant has already made his offer to CMP. He hasn't heard a word from them, however.

It seems quite clear that what CMP wants is not enough power to keep Maine homes and businesses humming, but enough surplus power to make a profit selling out-of-state. That is CMP's problem and should not be made a burden for western Maine to bear.

As if wanting to take western Maine's trees and replace them with towers were not insulting enough, CMP plans to charge its customers for the millions of dollars being expended on promoting this hare-brained project. According to company officials, the cost of surveying the route of the proposed powerline, holding public sessions and working through the permitting process at the state and federal levels will cost $11 million over two years. While CMP's Canadian partners will shoulder some of this expense, the remainder will be charged to the company's ratepayers, according to a company official. And this is not even considering the very real costs that western Maine will be forced to bear in terms of decreased property values, loss of tourism revenue, and the dollar equivalent for a damaged quality of life should the project go through.

The project is not needed. The project is distasteful in the extreme to area residents. The project should be halted immediately by state authorities saying "No Thank Q."

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I have lived in Bethel for about 30 years. For those many years through my childhood and through my adulthood, the town of Bethel has been their arms, so to speak, for the NTL folks.

Most people in town know where I live. For those of you that don't know, I live on Paradise Road at the end nearest to town. In fact, I can see the conference center from my house.

In the past 10 or 12 years I have put up with loudness of theirs at night. When my kids were babies, the NTL folks woke my babies up. This would go on until one or two in the morning. Well, they have stopped that stuff. (Let me take this time and thank you for not being so loud at those hours.)

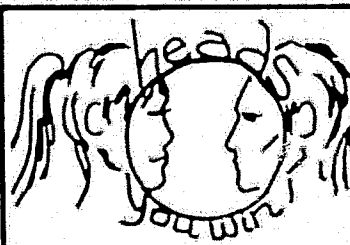

Now that I have gotten all of the formalities out of the way, the reason I am writing this letter is because of the session they are having right now. I don't really know the name of this particular session, but I think it is putting your trust in another human being. What they do is blindfold someone and they have another person beside them and they are to trust that person so they won't walk into things or get hurt. Well, I am really deeply offended by this. I feel you are discriminating against the blind people. Why put your trust in another human being? Why not put your trust in the Lord Jesus Christ, the supreme being?

You people that are taking this particular session ought to stop and really thank God for all of your five senses. What if all of a sudden you lost one of your five senses. You would be lost. You people really ought to stop and really meditate on this. After you have done that you ought to thank God for your five senses. Some people are not as fortunate as you are. Some people were born with only four senses. These people wish they could have all five.

When you go around blindfolded and seeing what it is like to be blind, don't you think that people that are blind would like to go around to see what it would be like to see!!!

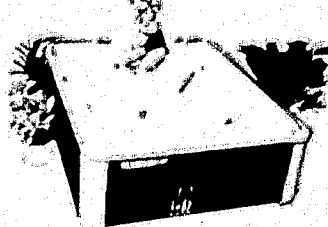

I feel that you are making fun of the handicapped people!!! I wish you people would stop and think what I said in this letter.

From Augusta

On Aug. 1 the Bureau of Taxation began accepting applications for the Elderly Householders Tax and Rent Refund Program for 1987. As in past years, the purpose of this program is to provide property tax relief through a system of grants to certain elderly individuals who rent their homestead. The amount of the refund is the property tax assessed or 25 percent of rent paid for the right of occupancy, up to maximum of $400.

To qualify for the refund, the individual requesting the refund must have reached the age of 62 by Dec. 31, 1986, must have been a legal resident of Maine, and must have owned and occupied or rented his or her homestead for the entire year of 1986. Total household income for 1986 must not have exceeded $6,600 in the case of a single-member household or $7,900 in the case of a multi-member household. An unmarried person who has reached the age of 55 by Dec. 31, 1986, and is, due to disability, receiving federal disability payments is eligible providing he or she meets the other eligibility criteria. Married persons may also qualify at age 55 providing both spouses are receiving federal disability payments and other eligibility criteria are met. The income guidelines reflect a 3.1 percent increase over the 1986 program.

The Elderly Low Cost Drug Program provides eligible elderly individuals with the opportunity to obtain certain life-sustaining drugs for diabetes, heart condition and high blood pressure at a cost of $2 per prescription. The program also covers certain categories of anti-arthritis drugs at a monthly cost of $15. Eligibility criteria are similar to that for the tax and rent refund program. Recently enacted legislation increases the income limit for households of two or more members to $8,500 for the Drug Program only effective Oct. 1, 1987.

Claims are to be filed between Aug. 1 and Oct. 15, 1987. Questions regarding claim forms and eligibility or requests for forms should be directed to: Bureau of Taxation Attn.: Elderly Program Coordinator; Station 24; State Office Building; Augusta, Maine 04333. Rotary Club notes

Guest speaker at the Bethel Rotary Club's weekly breakfast meeting at Martha's Restaurant Tuesday was Joan Scaro, animal control officer for the Town of Bethel.

Ms. Scaro pointed out that it was in everyone's best interests for owners to keep their dogs leashed or in enclosures when they are out-of-doors. She said allowing dogs to run loose creates a nuisance for others and also exposes the dog to diseases he may pick up away from home.

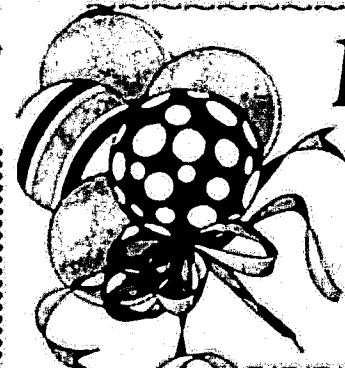

She said allowing a dog to run loose is also illegal, under both state and town laws. A dog that is picked up for running loose is taken by the animal control officer to the shelter, in Oxford. In order to regain control of the pet, the owner has to pay a fine, pay any outstanding licensing fees, and pay the cost of the shelter—on a per day basis, Ms. Scaro said.

In business matters, President Rick Whitney reported that the Spanish Youth Exchange visit by the 20 young people from Milan, Spain, cost the club over $1,800. Most of the cost was covered through special fund-raising projects.

'No-Thank-Q' to CMP

A consultant for CMP, David Jenkins, of the engineering firm Chas. T. Main, Inc., of Boston, Mass., told the audience, "No one is trying to tell you this project would not involve environmental impact."

The towers carrying the high-voltage lines will be between 70 and 130 feet tall, and will be quite visible. And that is why CMP and its consultants tried to keep them away from what they said were "scenic areas." Consultant Jenkins said the two final alternatives for the preferred corridor had been an eastern one—through Canton—and a western one—through Andover. The eastern one was eliminated finally because it would pass visually near four of the highest mountains in the state—and the Sugarloaf and Rangeley recreation areas. Thus, in June, the Andover route became the preferred alternative.

The route passes east of the village of Upton, north and east of the village of Andover, and south and west of Roxbury Pond. Mr. Jenkins said his firm had originally wanted to site the corridor along the north of Roxbury Pond but relented because of the damaging effect it would have on recreation there.

Mr. Greece, reading a statement from the Andover Planning Board, told the CMP delegation, "The future of Andover lies in its recreational resources," and people will not settle in the area if they have to look at a huge powerline.

While sympathetic to the plight of Andover residents, Mr. Crabtree explained his position: "Our job is to find the least-intrusive route."

He further explained the reason CMP needed a route and a powerline to begin with. According to the CMP official, demand for power in Maine is projected to grow by 2-3 percent annually. By the year 2001, this will leave the state with a shortfall of 600 megawatts, given the fact that no new large powerplants are planned.

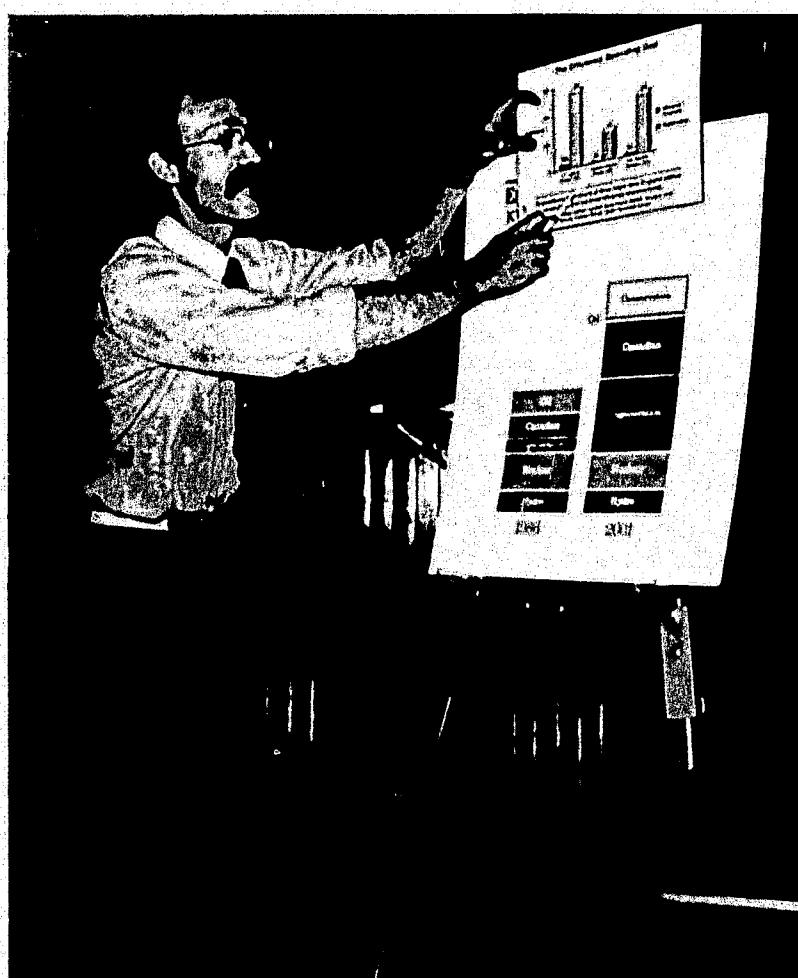

Mr. Crabtree noted in passing that hydro resources in the state are pretty much used up, that additional coal or nuclear plants are unacceptable to residents of the state, that oil sources are unpredictable because of mid-east tensions, and that cogeneration will be increasingly used—so that it produces 30 percent of CMP's needs by the year 2001.

Additionally, he said, CMP expects to save 700 megawatts by 2001 through getting people to conserve on energy use.

Given the gloomy forecast of energy availability, Mr. Crabtree said, "That essentially leaves us with Canada." We believe that Hydro Quebec [the enormous Canadian hydro-electric project in New Brunswick] is the best available alternative."

What is attractive about the Canadian power purchase, he said, is its low price (an average of 9¢ cents per kilowatt-hour over the 25 years of the contract), its stable price, its reliability, and the short lead time involved with building a powerline (as opposed to building a power plant).

Although the expected shortfall in 2001 will be 600 megawatts, CMP will be buying MICHAEL BREAUULT, of Wilton—one of the leaders of the "No Thank Q" anti-powerline movement—tried to demonstrate last Wednesday night at Andover that the power shortage predicted by CMP can be eliminated by conservation and alternative sources of energy. The lower chart was presented by CMP in bolstering its argument that a 450KV DC powerline is needed from Canada through western Maine and down to Pownal in order to import power from Hydro Quebec. The approximately 150 people who turned up for the informational meeting, sponsored by the Andover Board of Selectmen, were mostly against the powerline proposal. A CMP official said it was the largest crowd to turn out for one of the company's presentations. An official said the exact route for the proposed project would be announced in four to six weeks.

ing 900 megawatts—selling the remainder at a profit to customers in southern New England. Mr. Crabtree said the company did not really want this extra power, but, "In order to get the best price we had to agree to take 300 megawatts we didn't need."

There were a number of people in the audience who didn't see the power demand situation quite the same as CMP did. Michael Breault, of Wilton, a member of the anti-powerline group called "No Thank Q Hydro-Quebec," demonstrated on a chart that demand could be held in check through conservation, and that additional power requirements could be met by using cogeneration and other small plants.

CMP's Crabtree admitted it was anyone's guess as to exactly how much power would be needed in the state by the year 2001. "Nobody knows what the actual power requirement will be."

But, he said, "it's our responsibility to provide affordable, reliable energy for the people of the State of Maine." And, at the moment, that seemed to mean purchasing additional power from Canada.

Aside from questions of visual impact and power requirements, separate discussions arose over the question of health risks associated with the powerline. A number of people were concerned with CMP's planned herbicide spraying to keep the right-of-way clear of trees. Yet more were concerned with potential risks from the ions emitted by the high-voltage lines.

CMP presented a physicist, a neurochemist and a medical doctor to discuss the potential health risks and discount them as being unfounded. People in the audience remained skeptical, however.

Leaders of the "No Thank Q Hydro-Quebec" movement urged those opposed to the project to contact elected officials and comment at public hearings and during public commenting periods. The commenting period on CMP's request to the federal government to import power has been extended to Aug. 31.

From Sen. Cohen

The last three months have seen a diverse array of nearly three dozen witnesses appear before the Iran-Contra investigating committees to relate a stunning tale of intrigue, deception and contrivance at the highest levels of our government.

Ranging from the famous to the obscure, these individuals—many testifying with limited immunity from criminal prosecution—have made their cases with the television eye of the world focused upon them.

Their stories and their styles have been at odds in many instances. The fiery idealism of Oliver North and Fawn Hall contrasted with markedly with the measured indignation of George Shultz and Weinberger, for example.

But their presence before our unique Senate-House investigation is a testament to what Walter Lippman has described as the supreme virtue of democracy—the method it provides for "dragging realities into the light, of summing our rulers to declare themselves and submit to judgment."

The fact that we aired this tale in public is a credit to our system of checks and balances and an indication of its strength.

The story these witnesses told was remarkable: The President, motivated by a sincere desire to free our hostages, engaged on a flawed plan that included trading them for weapons. To carry out this highly complex mission, the President turned, not to the foreign policy professionals in the State and Defense departments and Congress, but to a private, underground, amateur network of international operatives.

Unfortunately, while carrying out one misguided initiative, these foreign policy freelancers came up with another—to divert the arms sale profits to the Contras.

CMP must also obtain a permit from the state Public Utilities Commission stating the project is necessary for the state. And the company wants an endorsement from the Legislature. Sen. Ed Erwin (D-Rumford) attended the meeting, as did his wife, Rep. Phyllis Erwin (D-Rumford) and Rep. Jeff Mills (D-Bethel). Sen. Erwin said he hasn't made up his mind yet on the advisability of the project.

Friday night Carl and Lettie Brooks, Esther Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Hathaway attended the ticket supper at Franklin Grange Hall. The winners were drawn after supper.

Some cooler weather came in this week. It is easier to work outdoors for a change. The gardens are getting too dry and are wilting down. Monday it rained however, I hope it saved the gardens.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Andrews called on me Saturday afternoon for a little while. Mr. and Mrs. Irving Cushman of Augusta dropped in for a while. They had been touring on their motorcycle through Rumford, East B Hill, Grafton Notch, Errol, 13 Mile Woods, to Berlin and through Bethel to here. They left for home through Sumner.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Brooks, Olive Davis, Bertha Benoit, Lucille Robbins attended Franklin Grange, Monday Night.

An informal reception was held at Don and June Demarest's new home for their son and wife, Peter and Linda Demarest, who were married July 19. Sunday, Aug. 2, about 50 friends and neighbors visited with them wishing much happiness would come their way over the years.

They received cards, money and gifts. Mrs. June Demarest and Tommy Poland prepared the lunch. Tommy made the wedding cake which was cut by the honored guest. Mr. and Mrs. Peter Demarest are living in the little house across the road from his parents.

Tom Demarest from Pompano Beach, Fla., and David Demarest from Seattle, Wash., with his two little girls were home for the reception. So all the boys were together again for a week or so.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Hathaway held a cookout Monday night for their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Tyler, and their daughter, Mrs. Jane Niro and two girls from Massachusetts, who are home this week.

The Harrington family has been having a very busy summer. Ray, Janice and Patrick were host family for Carlos and Francisco, two of the 14-year-old Spanish boys. They took the boys to the Auburn Mall, the Maine Mall and Old Orchard Beach. It was a very rewarding experience having these young people who fit into the family so well.

After the picnic which wound up the baseball season on July 25, Ray and Patrick, spent a week at Camp Boma-zeen in Belgrade.

Last week and this, Patrick has been working with handicapped children in Norway.

The Greenwood Fire Department will hold its monthly training session Tuesday, Aug. 18, at 6:30 p.m. at the fire station.

The Greenwood Historical Society met Wednesday for its annual picnic at the society building. There were 20 members and one visitor present. Larry Billings came from the Woodstock Historical Society. At the business meeting they discussed the craft fair and the building committee reported a purchase of marble for the kitchenette and bathroom. There was an antique chair on exhibit which was recently donated to the society by Margaret Herrick Oakes of Augusta. This chair was hand made in 1750. It came to Mrs. Oakes by way of her father, Judge Herrick of Bethel, and before he owned it the chair belonged to the Ames family of Greenwood. Betty Prince of South Paris gave an afghan to be sold at the craft fair. At the September meeting, Phyllis Coudige will furnish the refreshments.

Mrs. Mary Jane Painchaud, Brian and Timothy, of Kittery, have been vacationing for two weeks at the Royer camp on Twitchell Pond. Her husband, Paul, has been there whenever he could get away from his business.

Ralph Mills has returned home to Colchester, Vt., after spending a few days with his parents, Lorraine and John Mills. On Wednesday they all visited Mrs. Mills' father and wife, Charles and Helen Swan, at their home in Fryeburg. Mrs. Mary Mills and her brother, Louis Martin, visited their sister, Cecile Winslow, at the Buck Hill Apartments in South Paris. Lee Mills visited his brother, Ray Mills, at Hobbs Pond one day last week.

The Greenwood Fire Department Auxiliary met Tuesday, July 28, with Flossie Bernier, Cheryl Young, Barbara Dunham, Lorraine Mills, Mary Stone, Sally Melville, and Maggie Ring present. The Senior Citizen dinner for Bryant Pond and the Western Maine Firemen's supper were discussed and menus planned. It was also planned to have a barn day, Wednesday, Sept. 16, at Barbara Dunham's to sort and label clothes. It was decided due to the number of activities going on not to have a table at the Historical Society craft fair or to have a picnic for the fire department and auxiliary this year. However, the auxiliary will support the firemen if they decide to have one.

had just arrived from New Jersey. Then she stopped in to see her brother and wife, John and Lorraine Mills, and reported that Elinor's daughter, Cheryl, and husband, had just made Elinor a grandma with Ashley Marie. It is bad enough to know that people your own age are becoming grandparents but when youngsters you bounced on your knee become grandparents, that is an eye opener! Anyway, congratulations all around folks.

Community Club meeting at the hall Wednesday night for election of officers for 1987-88. Voted to retain the same officers. Discussed the water system to the hall. Voted to shingle roof on one side of the hall and to buy a package of T-shirts for Harlan Abbott as he renewed two while spraying the stain on the hall. Joe Vatcher's T-shirt is a polka dot but is all right to wear on the plantation.

The remainder of this summer's Friday Flick schedule is as follows:

Aug. 14: Strega Nona; Clay; The Ugly Duckling;

Aug. 21: Seadream; Magic Balloons; One Kitten for Kim.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Nelson attended a very interesting and informative meeting Wednesday, July 29, at the Wilson's Mills Grange Hall concerning the construction of high voltage direct current transmission lines running from the Canadian Border into Maine. They were quite concerned as these lines were shown to be directly across their camp yard. Many questions have to be answered before these lines will be built in the next two years. Representatives from Central Maine Power Co. and Boise Cascade Co. were at the meeting to answer questions and to get opinions and information from the lessees. They informed the people that they would stay away from camps, water supplies and deer yards.

Mr. and Mrs. Abbott and family are visiting their parents and also their grandmother, Mrs. Sarah Grover, for a few days.

Eddie Millett and wife are having a new bathroom installed, and other repairs on their house.

Many from here attended the North Waterford Fair and reported that it was the greatest.

The Androscoggin Home Health lady was in town calling on Wednesday.

Mrs. Gladys Plummer visited me one day and left me a pretty plant. Her son and wife and son gave it to her.

Mrs. Dot Bell of Lovell visited me Wednesday.

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

Approximately 60 persons attended the August monthly meeting of the Bethel Historical Society last Thursday evening to hear Norman L. Buttrick of Freeport and Bog Road, Gilead, describe some of his experiences as an archaeologist in some of Maine's most important sites. Mr. Buttrick's slide presentation provided insights into how an archaeologist approaches the problems of learning about the past and just how he can determine from the evidence. He displayed a number of fragments found in sites throughout Maine and explained his significance. During the business portion of the meeting President Alden Kennett announced that the annual meeting would be held Sept. 3. A nominating committee was elected consisting of Helen Morton and Maxine Brown to join with trustee member Donald G. Bennett. By LOUISE LORING

August—the wind down time of the summer. Tonight I hear the crickets chirping, and out yonder a true toad adds its voice to the gentle belowing breezes, that have trickled beautifully through the screens, just at the sun's setting. There is a strange hush in the village as if all creatures great and small are cooling themselves quietly. Symphonies are composed in quiet times like these. If you listen in the meadow, as the neighbor's Tabby cat searches for her night time meal. Swallows twitter overhead zapping about, soaring, and dipping, now heavenwards, now earthwards it seems as they too pursue their night time pleasures. Soon they will gather on the wires, and preen themselves, before seeking their evening shelter. A robin calls for rain, repeatedly, and the even flow of the river murmurs ever so softly, as it seeks the great channels to the sea. Listening to these sounds, if one closes one's eyes and lets one's body totally relax, from the day's stresses and toils one can slip away to a perfect planet, and when awakened, feel refreshed and replenished, and eager to get on with one's life.

The rosy hues of the sun set reflect themselves upon fluffy clouds, across the way and in a few brief moments, twilight envelopes all in her cloak of velvet. The August moon pops up over the mountain and I am glad to be alive.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Morin returned this week from their trip to Montreal. While there they also visited the Grand Zoo. The blackberries are already ripe, and seem to be in abundance as usual. Kathie Sweetser's children have been visiting friends and relatives in Groveton. My daughter, Debbie Cantelo, and friend, Yvonne, of Portland called on me one day last week.

I was delighted to make the acquaintance of my great nephew, Whitney Dune Bryant, who is just six months old, for the first time, at the home of mother, Elsie Bryant, in Bryant Pond. Whitney's parents, William and Darcel Bryant, accompanied him along with his grandmother, Helen Bryant, all of Bangor. The Fernand Corriveau family attended a Robinson family reunion held at Howard Pond, recently. Kathie and Kenny Cole took their wheels to Andover Old Home Day and

Summer biathlon event in Bethel Aug. 16

Did you know that biathlon is an Olympic sport? More countries compete in the winter version, a combination of cross-country skiing and rifle marksmanship, than in any other winter Olympic sport. Spurred on by this international popularity, summer biathlon (running and shooting) has emerged as a separate sport. Biathlon is one of the most comprehensive of all sports. It combines a sport highly dependent upon physical conditioning with shooting—a sport that is a contest of mental skills. According to three-time Olympian Lyle Nelson, "We endurance athletes are just beginning to scratch the surface of what shooters know about sports psychology. Their sport is a match of mental skills. Adding this mental dimension to the physical sports makes biathlon a total challenge."

Biathlon requires the competitor to shoot quickly and accurately. Each athlete runs a loop, arrives at the range to shoot five prone shots, runs another loop before shooting five standing shots, and then runs to the finish. Time penalties are added to the running time for every miss. Courses vary in length from three to 10 kilometers.

Summer biathlon is rivaling baseball for the national spotlight in sports. There are less than 100 competitions scheduled in the U.S. this summer. But you can get in on the ground floor. The Pine Tree Biathlon Club is hosting a clinic and mini fun competition for all interested individuals on Aug. 16, from 10 a.m.-1 p.m. at the sandpits near the airport on the Northwest Bethel Road. Spare rifles and ammunition will be available for newcomers who want to give biathlon a try. Shooting instruction and safety classes will be presented. For more information contact Kirk Seigel (817) 685-1012 evenings).

THE PRESIDENT DOESN'T TAKE AN OATH TO DEFEND THE AMERICAN FLAG OR THE STATUE OF LIBERTY.

The President takes an oath to defend something even more important than a majestic symbol of our country.

The President takes an oath to defend the Constitution of the United States. A document that has been described as the greatest leap forward for freedom in human history. A document that is the foundation of our country. And the means by which we achieve the rule of law and protect our freedom.

As we commemorate the Bicentennial of the Constitution, there is no better way for you as an American to reaffirm the principles for which our country stands than to learn more about the United States Constitution.

Newry

By AMY HANSCOM

The Annual Old Home Sunday and Church Picnic was held at the Newry Community church Aug. 2. A picnic on the church grounds was followed by services and hymn sing in the church with a message by Pastor Rodney Hanscom. Nancy Hanscom was organist. A reading by Gilberte Seeley on "The Meaning of Being a Christian," was read by Sylvia Wight. A history of the church written by Roger Hanscom was read by Gretchen Wight, who led the hymn sing.

The subject of Pastor Hanscom's message Sunday morning, Aug. 2, was "Teach Us To Pray," with scripture reading from St. Luke 11:1-13. Nancy Hanscom was organist.

Lee Swan visited his aunt, Doris Field, in Ogunquit during the weekend. Thelma Lowrey, Betsy Clark, Karlene Bachelder, Sylvia Wight, Gretchen Wight, Louise Tetley, and Olive Anderson were at the New Oxford Lanes, Rumford, bowling Aug. 4 for the first time since the April flood. Gilberte Seeley was a guest. Thelma Lowrey was high scorer for the triple and Thelma Lowrey and Louise Tetley tied for single.

Theresa Toti, Marge Wheeler, Rhode Island; and Eva Robertson, Saco, visited Gilberte Seeley recently. They went for a ride to see the new road construction near Willard Wight's and to see Eddie Bennett's new log house, which he is building with the help of relatives and friends.

Nancy Davis is in the Concord Hospital for a spinal operation correcting a curvature. She would probably appreciate cards and letters which may be sent to Concord Hospital, Concord, N.H. 03301, or at her home in Upton.

Cathy Moody of Florida is spending a two week vacation with her friend, Margaret Mitchell. Cathy grew up in Maine and spent some early years working on a farm in Grafton.

Last week got by me before I saw it coming. Andre and family, Joe and family, Laurie and Lou, were here Saturday and Sunday a.m. to visit and work on the house. Most of us attended the wedding reception of Dale and Darlene Korhonen in West Bethel Sunday afternoon. The couple were married a week earlier in Houlton.

The blueberries are small and sparse in our patch. Laurie's raspberries have been picked by thieves. They were caught red-handed and a neighbor sighted.

The school committee met last week with Supt. Dewaine Craig. Routine business was conducted.

Vi Bernier and her neighbor in Woburn spent several days at the Ray Bernier home, returning to Massachusetts Thursday.

Robert Judkins went with his parents and other family members to Kansas to attend the wedding of his sister, Rebecca Judkins.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank everyone for the gifts and money on our 50th wedding anniversary, and the thoughts that go with it. Thanks everybody.

By COLISTA MORGAN

One chill-morning, tooting little birds roved the air and the bees were slightly arthritic as they nestled the flowers. The sky had turned to China blue. How different from last week when the sky wept at some time every day.

For a short time sweaters came out again. Through clear air the parchment of hills tinted everything with the brightness of the rising sun. I worked outside and accomplished many things I had left undone during those eighty degree days.

I took a couple of walks this week. During the first I stopped beside a low rocky place where vegetation was rather sparse. I could see the effect of drying heat, which is noticed first in such a location. There were goldenrods, stunted, cinquefoil, a few running vines, and "British Soldiers," lichens.

The querulous cawing of young crows came to me from the woods.

I glanced down toward my feet and my eyes caught sight of movement among a vast amount of black insects walking or hopping among the stunted grasses. I bent down, peering closely. What I saw were immature field crickets, some no larger than a fly. So these will be the beginning of a late-summer orchestra.

I stopped for a while longer then turned to go but I heard a sliding noise; a spotted turtle in slow motion probably thinking that I was a tree. But when I moved, it drew in its head and feet then its tail. I noted that its eyes were orange-hued so it was a female. Male's eyes are dark brown. I picked her up to closely notice her coloring. I knew she wasn't lost even though turtles like ponds and other places that are best. When I replaced her I put her facing the pond. My book tells me she may well live for many years.

I reveled in the fortune of my discoveries, as I started for home.

I faced a mysterious breathing of wind moving in the trees; many small soothing voices in accord whispering peace.

Along my way shadows, as if afraid, danced and waltzed, jumping on and off sunny rocks in quick dashes. How lovely is shadow beauty!!!

This has been a busy week. I finished staining and varnishing the outside of my house except the two gables which required a tall ladder. My nephew's son did that for me.

One day a pupil of mine in the first years of teaching, whom I had seen but once since the 1930's called and asked if I were going to be home. She came to see me and brought me an afghan which she had made for me. She told me she had never forgotten the bracelet and necklace I once gave her when she was in school at least 50 years ago. I had long forgotten so her visit was surely a surprise, and a pleasure.

The same day Francine Hamel and her two girls of South Paris came. Mr. and Mrs. Edwin French and grandson of Arizona came for a visit. Also Mr. and Mrs. Carl Brooks, West Paris; Dot and Rena Curtis, Eleanor Inman, Local; Sharon Libby and a friend of Greenville.

Callers at Dot Curtis' were Sonny Bushey and Sarah, his daughter, Waterford; Gabriella Davis and Patrick Michaud, Biddeford; Phil and Dot Bentley, Lewiston; Evelyn Heikkinen, Mexico; Francine Hamel and two girls, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin French and grandson, Arizona; Fred and Rena and Kathy Curtis, Eva Felton, Local; Mildred Bowman, Hebron.

Teresa Inman recently had a birthday party at Camp Applewood. Her grandfather and grandmother and other members of her family were there.

Fred and Rena Curtis had their grandson, Fred, of Buckfield stay overnight with them. Their daughter, Colista, and husband, Stephen, of Freeport visited them on Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Curtis were in Bowdoinham one day to visit their grandson.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonas Holt and I were at Mr. and Mrs. Robert Holt's, Windsor,

Notes from the Woodstock Historical Society

Following is a description of the famous painter, Leonardo da Vinci—

He represented the most perfect type of human being in the modern world. That was his glory, and his tragedy. He had the limited powers of a man. His ambition was to do all things and to do them flawlessly. He conceived a thousand projects but completed only a handful. —Henry Thomas

Thanks to all who worked on the society dinner. Their project was completed—and done well.

The museum has had visitors from as far away as California.

A beautiful Thursday morning with the sky so blue and the sun shining. The air is so nice and clear and cool, it is just a wonderful morning. Branches are waving in the breeze and the birds sing out side the mobile home making it a scene from a fairy tale. Russell's flowers are blooming and more starting to, for which we watch each and every day. The garden needs rain but is doing pretty well considering no more rain than we have had. Zucchini's are getting larger and larger every day and just can't keep up with them. We eat lots of zucchini casseroles made in different ways, but they grow so fast that they get ahead of us. I'm not worried as the large one will make some good zucchini relish and that in turn makes for good gifts for Christmas or whatever. Not much goes to waste around here. We were brought up not to waste things and we still believe in it.

Hope none of you good folks are lucky enough to get fibrositis. It seems to get worse for me and when I have a bad spell, I get sick all over. The pain is so different than that which concerns the joints that I can't explain it but wouldn't wish it on my worst enemy. Finally getting over one of those spells and glad of it. Wish I didn't have to have any more. Had to have a pain shot that would knock most folks out but it just made me groggy. However, it did relieve the pain for a while so am grateful for that.

I wasn't much good most of last week but Russell worked in the garden and on his building project last Thursday and Peggy went to Auburn to visit her daughter, Myrna.

Friday morning was cool again and it seemed good. Had a trip to Tri-County during the forenoon and Peggy and Russell went and did some errands while I was there. They got groceries at that time, also. Had taken my car to get some work done on it and expected to get it back on Friday but no dice. The guy who was doing the work for me, had trouble finding the parts necessary to fix it so it took a lot longer to get it back than I had anticipated. Seems as though that is usually the way when something is wrong with a car. They find it needs more work than realized in the beginning.

Peggy took Russell to West Sumner on Friday to see Mr. Ellis, who makes shoes. Russell's old ones are wearing out and he needed to order a new pair.

What a lovely day for Olde Home Day in Andover on Saturday. Peggy went up for a while but didn't feel I could walk around that much and with his eye trouble, Russell wasn't interested, either. She said she had a good time and saw lots of folks. Had lunch at the restaurant where Laura works so saw her while there. In the evening, Peggy went dancing at West Paris. She said they had a real nice dance and a good crowd. Not too large but a good crowd for dancing. Next month the dance will be on the second Saturday of the month as the first Saturday will be installation of officers for the three Granges, Rumford, where it will take place, Franklin and West Paris. So don't forget the next dance on Sept. 12.

None of us really felt like working on Sunday and thought we would go visit some relatives we have been wanting to see. However, when we called, neither of them were home but Doris Hayes would be home in the afternoon so we worked around in the forenoon and went visiting in the afternoon. Had thought we might get to Yarmouth to visit Evelyn Tammen but got no answer when we called so didn't get to see her. Hopefully we can find another time to try again. We visited Doris Hayes who lives in an apartment in her son Glen's home so got to see Glen and family, also. Enjoyed our visit immensely and on the way home, went to the Cole Farm for supper and saw another relative there. Never know when they will pop up, or where.

When we got into Norway, by Allen's Auto Sales, we saw a car laying on its top where someone had apparently had an accident as there were police cars there. Hope no one got hurt too badly.

Monday and my day for going to see the doctor for a treatment. Having such a time lately, I have used cold packs a lot and am thankful for the gel packs to use. Put them into the freezer and in a couple of hours they are ready to use. I am so glad we have three of them to use. Went to Franklin Grange in the evening and had a good time as the way things went, we all got a big laugh.

Russell has had a hard time getting someone to look at his eyes and really find the trouble.

Seems most of the doctors are on vacation or those left don't want or dare to change medication or something, so he is still having a hard time with his eyes. How I wish someone could or would come up with an answer for him. He has had to stop driving, watching TV reading and many other things because of his eyes. It makes life distressful when one has such trouble.

I am running out of space but hate to throw away good leaves when I can start more plants from them. Got lots of little spider plants that should be started but no place for them. That's the way it goes with my plants.

Russell and Peggy went to town Tuesday for some lumber for their projects. Wish my muscles would let me run the saw so I could do things I'd like to do but as they won't, I have to do other things. Enough to keep me busy, just would like to change a little.

Peggy took me to get my car Wednesday and then went to Bethel to visit her youngest daughter, Loretta Merrill. Hope she had a good visit and guess she did. Russell worked on his carpenter project and I did a little sewing. Can't do too much at a time till my ribs decide to stay in place and I don't know when that will be.

The Lovejoys had Helena Bartlett of Bethel for a visitor one afternoon recently. They also, attended the Robinson reunion. While Mr. Lovejoy was on vacation, they went to spend some time in northern Maine and look around. Another time, they took the children they care for to Story Land. Mary said there were seven children so you can see they had a handful keeping track of them but had a real good time. A good way to show the children how important they are in this life of ours. They will soon be back in school so now is the time for fun.

Be sure to come to the variety show at Bryant Pond Grange Hall, Aug. 13 at 7:30 for good family entertainment. Price is right.

CRANDALL ENTERING BATES

CARD OF THANKS

The surgery is successfully over—the anxiety of the post-operative problem solved—all because of the thoughts, prayers, and acts of kindness of friends and relatives and the tender loving care of Doctors and Nurses at Stephens Memorial Hospital. We will always be grateful to you all, especially those who made it easier for "Doddie" while I was in the hospital and since my return home.

SKI VACATION VIDEO OFFERED

Sunday River Ski Resort has produced a video brochure that will be offered to the public in early September, according to David Sysko, Sunday River advertising manager. The 11 minute video brochure, produced by Sunday River, the Video Network of Salem, Mass., and Creative Works of Charlestown, Mass., chronicles a complete Sunday River ski vacation and apres' ski dining and entertainment. Distribution will be handled through Sunday River. Skiers will be able to view the video brochure for 10 days then return it to Sunday River or purchase it. Any interested viewer should call or write Lynne Hodgkin at Sunday River Ski Resort, P.O. Box 450, Bethel, Maine 04217 or (207) 824-2187.

The video brochure is part of Sunday River's overall promotional effort for the 1987-88 ski season. Sunday River has joined SKI USA, a marketing group of 12 ski resorts nationwide promoting ski vacations to international markets. The resort is a member of the Ski New England marketing group which markets five to seven day destination vacations to skiers outside the New England region. Sunday will attend the fall ski show circuit on the East Coast and Canada and will be involved in many ski shop promotions. A sweepstakes promoting the Sunday River Express detachable quad chairlift, being installed as part of Sunday River's $24.8 million expansion, has been distributed to ski shops and tourist locations. All entrants will be eligible to win a complete Sunday River ski vacation or 100 first, second, or third prizes including a pair of Rossignol skis and lift tickets.

THOUGHTS FROM THE Pastor's Study

The Bethel Area Clergy Association, with the help of pastors of surrounding churches, is endeavoring to bring frequently to you these meditations. Not based on any set theme, they will be individual for each pastor. It is hoped you will find in these words, comfort and help for your daily life.

In Luke 12:16-21 Jesus gives the parable of the prosperous farmer. The man's goods have multiplied so rapidly that he is facing a dilemma. What shall I do, I don't have the buildings enough to house my goods he cries. Then says he, "I know what I shall do, I'll enlarge my buildings, I'll build, I'll remodel, I'll prepare to enjoy myself for many years."

I look about me in our little town and see condos rising everywhere. Restaurants filled to capacity, improvements on every hand. Nor is our town an exception, for as we are privileged to travel I see the same things happening nearly everywhere.

Jesus in this parable in Luke neither condemns riches nor a rising economy. He, however, issues a sobering warning when He says in Luke 12:19-21, "And I will say to you my soul, soul, thou hast much goods laid up for many years; take thine ease, eat, drink and be merry. But God said unto him, Thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee; then whose shall these things be, which thou hast provided? So is he that layeth up treasure for himself, and is not rich toward God."

Jesus taught it is more important to seek God and His righteousness than anything else. There is a great danger in times of prosperity to forget the God who created us, loved us and sent His Son to earth to save us.

What, says the Bible should it prosper us if we should gain the whole world and lose our own soul? May we seriously consider the Scriptures that call us to repentance and faith. "Seek ye the Lord while He may be found, call upon Him while He is near." Isaiah 55:6.

Chamber of Commerce

The Chamber is awaiting return of the Blue Cross/Blue Shield applications that were mailed out. If you received a package, please respond either by sending in the application or by calling the office. Thanks!

Robin Zinchuk and Mac MacMunn traveled to Augusta on Monday for an Eastern States Exposition (Big E) exhibitors' meeting. The state will be represented well in the Maine Building—and it sounds like the fair in Springfield, Mass., will be a great one. It runs from Sept. 18th to the 27th. For more information, contact the Chamber office.

The Chamber is pleased to announce that it will be holding its first breakfast issues meeting on Thursday, Oct. 1, at 7:30 a.m. at Martha's Restaurant, Bethel. Charles Mercer of the Finance Authority of Maine will be the guest speaker. The meeting is open to the public—anyone interested in obtaining information on how to obtain business capital through FAME. More details will be disclosed before the date.

The monthly meeting of the Board of Directors will be held tomorrow, Thursday, Aug. 13, at 7:30 a.m. at the Casco Bank. All are welcome!

Girl Scout service team of Telstar Assoc. meets

The Service Team of Telstar Association of Kennebec Girl Scout Council met at the home of Cindy Blake at Bethel at 10 a.m. on Aug. 6, with the following other members present: Joyce Knight, Field Executive from Kennebec Council; Diane Milligan, Service Unit Manager, of Rumford Point and Sandee Endicott of Locke Mills.

Ms. Milligan stressed the immediate need for many new volunteers to serve the Girl Scouts in the Telstar area. Needed are Troop Organizers and Consultants for Andover, Canton, Peru, and Rumford. Two people could team up (or work separately) to do this TOC work, one could organize the troops, orient the new leaders, etc. and the other person could act as consultant and attend the meetings to bring back information, etc. Also almost all towns in the area are in need of Troop Leaders and Assistant Leaders for girls of all ages from the Kindergarten Daughters up to and including girls in High School in Cadette and Senior troops. The Telstar area consists of the towns of Albany, Andover, Bethel, Bryant Pond, Canton, Carthage, Dixfield, Gilead, Hanover, Magalloway Plantation, Mexico, Newry, Peru, Lincoln Plantation, Locke Mills, Milton, Riley, Roxbury, Rumford and Upton.

Anyone that wishes to help in any of the above areas, please get in touch with Mrs. Robert Milligan, Star Route Box 180, Rumford Point, Maine 04279 or telephone her at 364-2345.

Very good training is available, so anyone does not necessarily have to have a background in Girl Scouting, or have their own girl enrolled in the Girl Scouts. Men and women of all ages are welcome. In fact several troops in the Council area are now led by husbands and wives as co-leaders. Basic Leader Training is to be available on Aug. 29 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Buckfield; on Sept. 26 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Buckfield; on Sept. 26 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at South Paris; and on Oct. 13 and Oct. 20 in the Rumford Area. Anyone interested should contact Kennebec Council at 1-800-851-4500 for the exact locations and to register.

Last group arrives for NTL '87 summer session

The last group of NTL participants and staff for the summer arrived in Bethel last Monday for the start of five new programs. The total NTL population continues at a high level, with more than 150 persons in residence.

This season's informal staff presentations, the Sunrise Seminars, will conclude on a few days. On Tuesday, staffer Crescencio Torres spoke on the topic, "Change Can Be Easy—Individual, Group, Organizational"; and on Wednesday Daryl Funches' presentation was on "Three Gifts of the Organization Development Practitioner, For Helpers and Helpees."

The seminars for the remainder of the week, 7:30-8:15 a.m. in the Maine Room, are as follows:

• Thursday, Aug. 13, Edie Seashore and Daryl Funches, "Values That Inform Our Personal and Professional Lives."

• Friday, Aug. 14, Ben Kaye, "Career Development—More Than a Trivial Pursuit."

• Saturday, Aug. 15, Michael J. Merrill, "The Function of Betrayal in Personal Change."

A special additional seminar, the final one for this season, will be held on Sunday, Aug. 16, at the regular time of 7:30 a.m. to recognize the significance of a unique convergence of the planets on that day. The subject of this celebration will be "Harmonic Convergence: A Global Transformation."

While the busy multi-purpose session is coming to an end this weekend, NTL people will still be in Bethel in the weeks to come, as NTL's Gehring Conference House will be used for several individual workshops in September. Additionally, another regular Human Interaction Laboratory will be held at the Bethel Inn Conference Center in October.

NTL wishes to thank the merchants and townspeople of Bethel for their cordial reception of more than 1,000 participants and approximately 160 staff members during the past eight-week season, during which 40 different programs have been held. An even busier schedule is planned for next summer,

'Northfield' appearing at Hammons House Saturday, Aug. 29

Saturday evening, Aug. 29, Northfield, an eight-member vocal group, will sing in The Hammons House gardens at The Upton Playhouse in Bethel by torchlight from 7:30-8:30 p.m.

Their program will be "Now I Walk in Beauty: A History of American Vocal Music." Now I Walk in Beauty is the name of a Navajo prayer, and so this performance opens with a respectful tribute to Mother Earth taken directly from the native Americans' singularly beautiful musical tradition. Northfield then embarks on a trans-Atlantic sailing voyage with the early settlers, coming to land in the stark setting of an early New England church (the basis for an excursion into the magic world of storytelling). Then to the cotton fields of the south in time to hear a field "hollar" whose roots were found in black Africa.

Poetry, prose, hymnsong, exuberant dance, and mime, all from the rich American tradition, are thoughtfully woven into the fabric of this entertaining and informative production. This will be an evening for the entire family, for children through grandparents.

Past performances by Northfield have been staged at churches, concert halls, community centers, The Theater at Monmouth, The Maine Arts Festival, and at the Lillian Nordica Auditorium at the University of Maine, Farmington.

Audience members are invited to bring blankets and picnics to enjoy on the lovely grounds of The Hammons House prior to the 7:30 p.m. performance.

Tickets are: adults, $4; children, $2. Call 824-3370 for advance tickets and reservations.

Rain or shine! Plan a festive picnic social evening! Bring the whole family or friends and neighbors!

when seven programs will start the season on Sunday, June 26.
